- Teaching, supervising and assessing postgraduate students, including lecturing, leading seminars and practical learning activities, supervision of student research activities, and setting, supervising and grading assessments;
- Planning and delivering teaching sessions that model good practice across a range of formats (e.g., face-to-face, online, blended and simulation);
- Contribute to the administration, delivery and continued enhancement of teaching programmes;

- Contributing as required, to the assurance and enhancement of teaching and assessment quality;
- Undertaking outreach and promotional activities, including the recruitment and selection of undergraduate and post-graduate students;
- Developing and enhancing the curriculum;
- Designing and developing relevant, cohesive and innovative new modules and curricula;
- Undertaking the role of link lecturer as defined in the School.

Research & Scholarship:

Building a research and scholarly profile is an essential part of an academic career. This will include:

- Conducting research and engaging in scholarship of quality and substance on topics related to general nursing;
- Achieve and maintain research outputs in line with those of Assistant Professor grade;
- Generating external income or securing resources to support scholarly activity as necessary;
- Disseminating research and scholarly outcomes through peer reviewed publication, presentation at national and international conferences, preparation of professional reports, commercialisation or other appropriate means;
- Affiliating with a University Research Institute, where appropriate;
- Advancing and sustaining a world-class research programme in nursing and related areas;
- Building research capacity;
- Fostering links with other institutions which will benefit both research and teaching at Maynooth University;
- Integrating research into the teaching curriculum;
- Supervising research students and post-doctoral fellows.

Service:

The academic staff members of the University are critical to achieving the strategic objectives of the University, and as such are required to engage in work that serves the collective strategic needs of the University. This may include:

- Administrative and service duties;
- Leading or contributing to strategic projects and initiatives;
- Contributing to the internationalisation of the University;
- Undertaking outreach and engagement activities;
- Collaborating with external partners;
- Promoting the University locally, nationally and internationally;
- Carrying out any other duties within the scope, spirit and purpose of a Maynooth University academic post.

Administrative and other duties:

This will include:

- Undertaking administrative tasks within the School, Faculty and University as required and as assigned by the Head of School, the Dean or the President;
- Attending and serving on Departmental, Faculty, Institute and University committees as appropriate;
- Carrying out, from time to time, duties on behalf of the University and representing the School of Nursing on appropriate national/international advisory boards and professional bodies.
- Attending courses and engaging in other activities associated with professional development, as appropriate;

- Appropriate to the level of appointment, assuming a leadership and managerial role within the school and subject of general nursing and undertaking the role of subject head if duly elected or appointed.
- Coordinating and academically administering modules, workshops and other teaching and learning activities
- Complying with all University policies.

The ideal candidate will have:

The University

Maynooth University is a very distinctive university, a collegial institution focused on science and engineering, humanities, and social sciences, and equally committed to research, teaching and community engagement. Located in Ireland's only university town, its distinctive features and character owe much to its unique history and heritage. It provides a high-quality educational experience to over 15,000 students on a campus with 18th century roots and 21st century dynamism.

The strategic trajectory and accomplishments of Maynooth University, in the 25 years since its establishment as an autonomous public university, are exceptional, and a source of great pride to the university community, staff, students and alumni. Maynooth University in 2024 ranked in the top 90 global Times Higher Education (THE) Young University rankings, placing 86th in the world. Maynooth University's growing global reputation is based on the originality, quality, importance and impact of its research and scholarship, commitment to teaching and learning, the quality of academic programmes, and its leadership in widening participation in higher education. The sources of success are the dedication of its staff and the energy and engagement of its students.

Maynooth University is a place of lively contrasts – a modern institution, dynamic, rapidly-growing, research-led and engaged, yet grounded in historic academic strengths and scholarly traditions. With over 15,000 students Maynooth offers a range of programmes at undergraduate, postgraduate and doctoral level in the humanities, science and engineering and social sciences, including business, law and education. The University also offers a range of international programmes and partnerships.

Maynooth's unique collegial culture fosters an interdisciplinary approach to research, which its world-class academics bring to bear in tackling some of the most fundamental challenges facing society today. The University's research institutes and centres consolidate and deliver this impact as vibrant communities of learning, discovery and creation. Research at Maynooth also is very much central to its teaching and the University prides itself on placing equal value on its research and teaching missions.

Maynooth University's Values

Our values define who we are, what we believe in and how we act as a community. They underpin our future success and guide our expectations of ourselves and each other. Our values apply to everyone in the University community:

- Integrity

Faculty and Research Institutes

The Faculty of Science and Engineering comprises the Departments of Biology, Chemistry, Computer Science, Electronic Engineering, Mathematics and Statistics, Physics, Psychology, Sport Science and Nutrition, and the School of Nursing. The role of the Faculty is to co-ordinate the academic activities of individual departments, to oversee the strategic development of departments and to support interdepartmental programmes. The University has also developed a number of interdisciplinary institutes to support excellent research and to build research capacity across disciplines.

Research within the Faculty is driven by a commitment to innovation and excellence, supported by dedicated Institutes and Research Centres that promote collaboration across the various scientific disciplines and engineering fields within the Faculty. These efforts ensure that our work has a lasting impact both within academia and the wider world.

The Kathleen Lonsdale Institute for Human Health Research addresses the 21st-century challenges of chronic illness, emerging diseases, and persistent global infections. Our research teams collaborate with international academics, healthcare providers, and industry to explore human health at the molecular and cellular levels, discovering innovative treatments and translating these discoveries into new medicines, procedures, and policies.

The Maynooth University Arts and Humanities Institute (AHI) serves as the research hub of the Faculty of Arts and Humanities. As Maynooth's flagship institute for groundbreaking, interdisciplinary research, AHI is dedicated to advancing scholarship within the Faculty and sharing the richness of Maynooth University's humanities research with the world. The institute also hosts a medical humanities research cluster, which explores the intersection of medicine, health, and the humanities, further enriching the scope and impact of its research endeavours.

The School of Nursing

The School of Nursing's seeks to cultivate compassionate, caring, competent, and innovative nurses who will shape the future of healthcare. This will be achieved by implementing a cutting-edge curriculum that actively promotes caring and compassion, combines scientific rigor with empathy, fosters inclusive pathways for diverse learners, promotes clinical excellence through community-based placements and research-driven practice, and supports staff development to inspire the next generation of nursing professionals. The B.Sc. (Hons) in General Nursing will be the first undergraduate programme offered by the School but this will be complimented by special purpose awards, developing Master's offerings and a PhD programme which is expected to commence in 2026.
