

Ollscoil Mhá Nuad Maynooth University

Department of Education Professor (B) of Education Policy (Permanent)

The Role

Maynooth University seeks an outstanding academic to join our staff as Professor of Education Policy at the Department of Education. This is one of three new Professor (B) appointments in the Faculty of Social Sciences aligned to the Society and Public Policy Research Beacon under Maynooth University's Strategic Plan 2023–2028.

Together, these posts represent a coordinated Faculty-level investment designed to strengthen research capacity, research-informed education, and societal impact in areas of critical public importance for Ireland and Europe.

This new Professor post contributes to Maynooth University's commitment to research-informed, practice-engaged education and policy-relevant scholarship, supporting the University's mission to deliver excellence, opportunity and impact.

We are seeking an internationally recognised scholar with an outstanding record of research, teaching and leadership in the field of Education Policy. Our particular interest is on the connection between university teacher education, accreditation and governmental policy. We are seeking a Professor who can engage actively in the debates on accreditation of teachers, government investment in teaching, and in university teacher education, influencing at a policy level.

The successful candidate will provide academic leadership in the field of Education Policy, contributing to the strategic direction of the department. They will contribute to the development of Education Policy studies across our programmes, mentor early-career academics, and engage in high-impact research that informs educational practice and policy at national and international levels. The successful candidate will foster interdisciplinary collaboration across the university and with external stakeholders, including policymakers and practitioners in the field. They will design and deliver undergraduate and postgraduate teaching, supervise Doctoral students and support the development of research capacity within the department. They are also expected to engage in public policy debates and contribute to the University's impact and knowledge exchange agenda. Please note that as part of the workload allocation process, teaching duties and service duties related to the Department, Faculty, or University may be assigned by the Head of the Department, their delegate, or the Dean of the Faculty of Social Sciences.

Maynooth University is committed to a strategy in which the primary university goals of excellent research and scholarship and outstanding education are interlinked and equally valued. Professors will be expected to provide significant intellectual leadership, through a demonstrated commitment to both education and research, and also to contribute to the effective leadership and management of the department, the faculty and the university.

Principal Responsibilities

A Professor of the University is expected to:

- Be an international leader in research and scholarship and contribute to the advancement of knowledge in the field;
- Provide leadership in research and scholarship within the Department, Faculty and University;
- Promote excellence in teaching and learning, and encourage innovation in teaching and learning amongst staff;
- Contribute to the teaching of undergraduate and postgraduate students, including lecturing, consultations with individual students, and supervision of research students;
- Contribute to the development of the curriculum and academic programmes within the discipline and more generally;
- Assume responsibilities for management and administrative tasks associated with the Department, Faculty and University;
- Be an active member of the University and contribute to the work of the University in outreach, collaboration, internationalisation, engagement and policy development.

Professors of the University are required to serve as Head of Department when requested to do so by the President (or their delegate).

The ideal candidate will have:

Essential

Research:

- A doctorate in Education Policy (or cognate area).

- An established track record of publication in top tier international peer reviewed journals, and internationally excellent research books, reflected in an excellent publication profile expected of a Professor of Education.
- An active research pipeline with potential for international peer reviewed publication, demonstrating the ability to sustain and deepen their research contribution over time.
- A demonstrated capability to undertake external research funding applications.
- Experience of leading funded research programmes.
- Experience of successfully raising external research funds at a national or international level.
- A productive research network and international academic experience in the areas of education policy and practice.

Teaching:

- An outstanding academic record as a university teacher, with extensive experience of teaching at undergraduate, postgraduate and executive levels in the area of education.
- A demonstrated record as an educational innovator, with a proven track record of curriculum development, especially within the discipline of education.
- Experience of supervising postgraduate and doctoral students to completion.
- Willingness to teach outside core areas of research focus in the broad fields of education.

Leadership:

- Experience of and commitment to working in an interdisciplinary setting.
- Excellent administrative and management skills, including experience of programme development and leadership.
- The ability to build effective relationships with a wide variety of internal and external colleagues.
- A willingness to undertake leadership roles within the Department and Faculty, such as academic direction of undergraduate or postgraduate degree programmes, Teaching and Learning, Research, or Head of Department if requested to do so.

External Environment:

- Experience of external media and stakeholder communications raising the profile of the discipline in the wider community.
- Editorial board and journal development experience.
- Experience of leadership roles in the accreditation process of education.

The University

Maynooth University is a very distinctive university, a collegial institution focused on science and engineering, humanities, and social sciences, and equally committed to research, teaching and community engagement. Located in Ireland's only university town, its distinctive features and character owe much to its unique history and heritage.

It provides a high-quality educational experience to over 17,000 students on a campus with 18th century roots and 21st century dynamism.

Maynooth University is a place of lively contrasts – a modern institution, dynamic, rapidly-growing, research-led and engaged, yet grounded in historic academic strengths and scholarly traditions. We offer a range of programmes at undergraduate, postgraduate and doctoral level in the humanities, science and engineering and social sciences, including business, law and education, along with a range of international programmes and partnerships.

The strategic trajectory and accomplishments of Maynooth University, since its establishment as an autonomous public university, are exceptional and a source of great pride to the university community, staff, students and alumni. Maynooth University ranked in the top 90 global Times Higher Education (THE) Young University rankings in 2024. Maynooth University's growing global reputation is based on the originality, quality, importance and impact of its research and scholarship, commitment to teaching and learning, the quality of academic programmes, and its leadership in widening participation in higher education. The sources of success are the dedication of its staff and the energy and engagement of its students

Faculty and Research Institutes

The Faculty of Social Sciences is a wonderfully diverse team of over 358 full time staff, and 64 researchers, in addition to a community of occasional staff providing specialise practice and disciplinary knowledge. As a community we support the learning journey of over 53% of all Maynooth University undergraduate, postgraduate and PhD students (8,239 FTE students). We are committed to publishing our research and community impact. We have published over 1,220 journal and book contributions in 2022-25 and obtained over €17.7 million (2024-25) in research funding from multiple sources including the European Union, the Irish Research Council, Enterprise Ireland, and Science Foundation Ireland amongst others. At the heart of our community is the impact that our students make as graduates and the interaction that our researchers have with communities on the ground to improve the lives and welfare of people in Ireland, Europe and worldwide.

The Departments and Schools in our community are led by the Heads of Adult and Community Education, Anthropology, Applied Social Studies, Design Innovation, Economics, Education, Froebel Department of Primary and Early Childhood Education, Geography, the School of Law and Criminology, the School of Business, and Sociology. Several of our communities are ranked higher than the University ranking in the Times Higher Education (THE) World Rankings 2026, including Law (251-300), Social Sciences (301-400), Business and Economics (401-500), Education (401-500).

As a faculty team we work to support the formation and implementation of the Maynooth University Strategic Plan. We are proud of our contributions to the Research Beacons of the University, especially our work in the fields of Sustainability and Climate Change, Data and Digital Transformation, Society and Public Policy, Health and Wellbeing. We have been at the heart of growth and transformation of education programmes in Maynooth University.

We have launched multiple new undergraduate and taught postgraduate programmes, resulting in significant growth in domestic and international student numbers of 8.5% since 2022, in addition to new doctoral programmes. We are proud of our focus on providing both research informed and practice engaged education for our students so that they have fast burn skills and concepts they can use immediately upon graduation, and foundational concepts and experiences that will enable them to adapt to changing conditions over time.

Impactful education and research require a community of staff that can take the time to support students and projects effectively. To this end we have increased the academic staffing of the faculty by over 15% since 2022. Our recruitment has focused on attracting the best talent from around the world. We are proud of the diversity of our staff in terms of disciplines, local and international experience. We hope that you will consider applying for this post and strengthening our research and education impact.

The Dean of the Faculty of Social Sciences has executive responsibility for units within the faculty, including resource allocation, strategic development, and operational alignment with university policy and, processes, and leadership of the faculty. The Heads of Department, Schools and Associate Deans (including research, teaching and learning, and international amongst others) report directly to the Dean.

The role of the Faculty is to coordinate the academic activities of individual departments/schools, to oversee the strategic development of departments/schools, manage risk, governance, and to support interdepartmental programmes. Several of the university Designated Research Institutes and Centres are primarily associated with the Faculty of Social Sciences, including the Maynooth University Social Sciences Institute (MUSSI), ICARUS, IVI and the ALL Institute. Our research is particularly strong at an interdisciplinary level in Society and Public Policy.

The Faculty of Social Sciences is committed to supporting implementation of the university Strategic Plan 2023-28, including its impact agenda in the space of Health and Wellbeing, hence it is recruiting a team of Professors in this space across the Faculty. These will work within their Departments and Schools, to advance teaching, research, and impact in this area, as well as coordinating their work across the faculty and university to maximise collective impact in the Social and Public Policy and Education field for Ireland and Europe.

Department

The Department of Education is a dynamic and growing department committed to developing innovative educational ideas, school-university partnerships and close links with the community. It has 24 full-time academic members of staff, and it offers undergraduate and postgraduate degrees including Initial Teacher Education for post-primary teachers through the Professional Master of Education and the Bachelor of Science with Education. The Department's postgraduate offerings focus on professional programmes in Educational Leadership and Education Guidance Counselling, and it offers three doctoral programmes: PhD, EdD in Education and in Psychology.

The Department of Education works with The Centre for Public Education and Pedagogy. This centre was established in 2018 with the ambition to conduct and co-ordinate research on the past, present and future of public education.
